

BADLY PAID PRINTERS.

The editor of the APPEAL, while in California last week, stopped a day in Sacramento to watch the proceedings of the California Press Association.

One day's session was devoted to a discussion of the business interests of the newspapers and a very astonishing state of affairs was shown to have existed for years in California.

During the discussion it came out that some of the newspapers had been doing official advertising for twelve and a half cents a square and one man had taken it for six cents to prevent it falling into the hands of a rival publisher.

This sort of business had been carried on all over the State and the publishers had met to remedy the evil. Their object was to form a Protective Association such as exists in nearly every State in the Union, the object being to establish rates below which no publisher, who has any self respect, will go.

It was asserted during the discussion that some of the publishers would agree to the rates laid down by the association and secretly break them.

Nearly every branch of business has its Protective Association, except the press.

The Dish-washers have their Union, so have the Messenger Boys, so have the Coal Heavers, and there is enough honor among that class to make the members keep their agreements.

It would be humiliating to admit that the members of the most honorable of all professions were lacking in those traits of honor possessed by dish-washers, messenger boys and coal-heavers.

That they have considerably less sense is amply demonstrated by their willingness to cut each others' throats in business and starve to death while working for everybody gratis.

The business methods pursued by some of the newspapers of California would indicate that the Stockton Asylum was a more appropriate place for their semi-annual meeting than the Crocker Art Gallery.

It was also complained that the county officials throughout the State declined to obey the law requiring the publication in one newspaper in the county of their quarterly reports.

They had ignored the law for years and beaten the papers out of thousands of dollars thereby. If the California Press Association would club together and hire a lawyer to bring a mandamus suit, these stubborn officials would soon be brought to terms.

A Nevada official who refused to obey the law in this respect would be brought to terms in short order. If the publishers of California but combine and assert their rights, they will soon get on a much better business footing than they have formerly enjoyed.

FREE COINAGE.

A dispatch from Washington states that one of the effects of the passage of either of the silver bills now before Congress, would be to shut down work in the Carson Mint, which is chiefly devoted to the coining of standard silver dollars. The people of Nevada can afford to look forward to such a contingency with equanimity, for if either the amended Windom or Jones' bill passes there will be such a boost given to silver mining that the few men thrown out of employment will find no difficulty in securing equally lucrative positions in the revived industry. —S. F. Chronicle.

We are told that the bills in question are "important steps towards free coinage," but if they close down the Carson Mint they can hardly be regarded as steps in that direction. The silver bills now before Congress are becoming a mystery to the West, and the result is an uneasy feeling everywhere that the Sherman jugglery

OURS is the largest and most complete general outfitting establishment on the Coast. The key to its success is that it furnishes what the people—and all the people—want. It ministers to every demand. There are coarse, stout goods for rough usage, plain, serviceable goods for everyday wear, and fashionable and costly goods from Vienna, Paris, London and New York. Prices are always as low, and, in most cases, lower than those of all other dealers.

These facts are cited for the benefit of out-of-town persons who wish to deal through the mails. We believe that we have stated nothing that is not accepted by those who know us.

trick may be repeated. What the West wants is absolute free coinage, and the APPEAL believes that the West is strong enough to demand it and enforce it. The Republican party is in power now, and if the West does not get free coinage this session the Republican party will be held responsible for the repudiation of its pledges, and in 1892 the West will be prepared to link its fortunes with the party that means business on the silver question. If the Republican party is not prepared to give us free coinage, Western Republicans are prepared to look elsewhere for a recognition of their rights.
